Waste plan

Residents to pay for some hauling

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Residents will begin paying to have yard waste removed as of July 1.

The city council Tuesday night will consider the first step of a three-year plan for handling trash and yard waste. The plan may eventually include a pilot recycling program in East Granite and the 6th Ward and is in response to changing state laws, including a July 1 ban on yard waste in landfills.

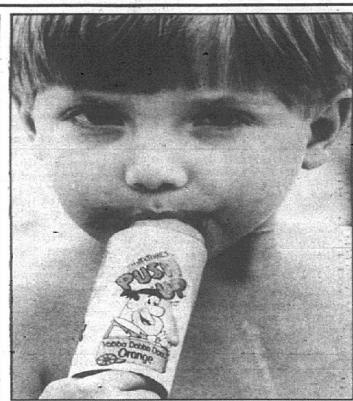

Sixth Ward Alderman Judy Whitaker, chairman of the Sanitation Committee, said the city is negotiating with three waste-management firms to provide the city with a by-the-container service for yard wastes. The service would be on a fee basis, with residents paying the fee.

Under the system, residents would pay $1.25 for each 30-gallon of yard waste to be hauled away. They would have the option of using biodegradable bags or 30-gallon cans, and would be given a sticker with which to identify the container.

Under another option, Whitaker said, the contractor would get 90-gallon containers to residents for $2.50 a month and these would then require three stickers for pickup.

Depending on the contractor, she said, pickup would be either weekly or every other week.

Elderly mens' 'gifts' issue in arrest

By Andy Siering
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Police have arrested a woman they believe may have bilked 16 elderly men out of "gifts" totaling at least $200,000 since last June.

Alice J. Rogers, 36, of Mitchell was charged Wednesday with prostitution after allegedly persuading a man in his 70s to give her $8,000 the previous week.

Police had been investigating Rogers for months to try to verify reports that 16 area men gave her their money in exchange for sex and gifts. The men ranged in age from 55 to 83.

Detective Ned Tapp said the Madison County State's Attorney's Office has had a difficult time coming up with charges in such incidents because the men, now accepting money or gifts were offered voluntarily.

The latest incident is the first in which money was allegedly given in exchange for a sex act. The man told the Press-Record/Journal that he had met Rogers at a fast-food restaurant, where she struck up a conversation with him.

He said he had given her a total of $8,000 in four installments "for a car or something ... I thought I was into something good," a young woman like that, he said.

Tapp said the investigation included other incidents in which Rogers allegedly befriended elderly widowers she met at fast-food restaurants and shopping malls.

Tapp said the men were told "she's a good citizen," such as that money was needed to avoid eviction or to get utilities turned back on. "There was no sex involved, except (the allegation) in the most recent case," he said.

"Most are widowers," he said. "She tells them she has money coming and can pay them back."

Rogers may have had a drug habit that could have cost up to $1,500 a day. Photographs taken by police in previous arrests revealed broken ankles and scars up and down both arms, he said.

Rogers pleaded guilty to theft of over $300 value, a wristwatch, in connection with one of the incidents and served 15 days in jail.

She was arrested in late May by Collinsville police for possession of a controlled drug substance and Granite City police got her probation revoked.

But Rogers was released May 26 from the Madison County Jail on a judge's order for medical reasons, Tapp said.

One Madison man spent his life savings, about $10,000, giving cash gifts, Tapp said. After the man's money was depleted, Rogers got him to give her his truck, Tapp said.

Rogers was released on $200 bail Wednesday. When police took her picture that day, she had short red hair; but in previous arrests she had blonde hair.

Man held in rape of 15-year-old

By Andy Siering
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — A Granite City man was arrested Friday afternoon for allegedly raping a 15-year-old Granite City girl early Thursday afternoon.

The man, 26, of the 2700 block of Michigan Avenue, was arrested at 2:15 p.m. Friday. He was held without bond pending warrant applications for aggravated criminal sexual abuse.

Police were unable to obtain warrants Friday and said they would apply for them Monday morning.

Officers said the man entered through an unlocked rear door of a house in the Wilson Park area while the girl was home alone and asked her to have sex with him.

The girl told police the man, whom she has known for several years, had called her up in the day but she had hung up. When he showed up, she refused several times to have sex with him, she told police.

The man left, the girl told police, but when she went into the bedroom and lay down to rest, he returned and seduced her. The investigation provided supporting evidence.

Police said the girl said she had met the man several years ago at the Wilson Park swimming pool but had never dated him and, in fact, was afraid of him.

Authorities said she submitted to the attack because she "feared for her safety" because of County OKs bid for new building

EDWARDSVILLE — The Madison County Board awarded a $16.9 million contract Friday to Korte-Plocher Construction Co. of Highland to build a new administration building and renovate the downtown courthouse in Edwardsville.

Korte Construction Co. of Highland and St. Louis, which is not affiliated with Korte-Plocher, submitted the low base bid.

But Korte was eased out of the low spot by Korte-Plocher after eight of the 11 alternate options in the bid packages were selected.

Korte raised questions about the county's bidding method.

Korte-Plocher's low bid and eight alternates totaled $16,915,200.

The board awarded the contract during a special meeting at 5:30 p.m.

Neighbor charged for killing dog with arrow

By Sam Hananel
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — A dog described as friendly by its owner was shot and killed with a bow and arrow Wednesday by a neighbor who claimed "Freckles" wasn't so friendly.

James W. Blackwell, 36, was arrested shortly after several neighbors who witnessed the shooting called police.

Owner Dale Walker was not home at the time; another resident of the house let the dog out. The incident happened in the 1700 block of State Street at about 2 p.m.

Blackwell was charged with cruelty to an animal and unlawful use of a weapon, both misdemeanors. He was released on $204 cash bail.

Witnesses said Freckles, a medium-sized dog about the size of a border collie, ran along State Street, an arrow protruding from its back. She collapsed at the back door of the Tip Top Tavern at State and 18th streets, where she bled profusely.

A policeman tracked the trail of blood back to Blackwell's back yard. Blackwell told the officer he had shot the animal because it was threatening him in his own yard.

The dog's owners were going to euthanize the dog immediately, but friends of Walker asked that it be taken to Bellemore Animal Hospital so a veterinarian could try to save it. Freckles died at the animal hospital.

"He's been threatening to shoot my dog for months," Walker said of Blackwell.

Blackwell, who resides next door, told police the dog was in his back yard acting like it was going to bite him, so he ran back into his house. When he came out, he saw the dog, he said, and the dog threatened him again, so he got his high-powered compound bow and shot the dog from a distance of about 20 yards.

Blackwell told police the dog had bitten him previously.

Walker said a neighbor who witnessed the incident said his Freckles had two five-week-old puppies with her when she was shot.

Walker said he had argued with Blackwell numerous times about the dog's barking and said he had purchased a muzzle for the dog because of Blackwell's complaints about being bitten.

Freckles was not the only animal he killed at the time, according to both Walker and Blackwell. Neither of the adjacent yards is fenced in.

Walker claimed Blackwell had tried to injure the dog before. "He's pulled knives on it, fishing poles, sticks and rocks," he said.

"I'm going to sue him for what my dog costs but it's not going to replace the dog," Walker said.

"He's telling everybody that (Freckles) is so mean that it needed to be killed," Walker said.

Walker said he intends to sue for damages and will discuss the matter with his lawyer, Robert Matosian.

"I'm not asking the guy to stay in jail; I just want him to pay," Walker said. "I hope he (Blackwell) learns his lesson over it."

Blackwell told the Press-Record Journal the dog had no muzzle, leash or chain at the time it was in his yard. He said he would not talk further until he could talk with his attorney.

Upon conviction, a first-time offense for cruelty to an animal, a Class C misdemeanor, is punishable with a maximum jail term of 30 days and a maximum fine of $500. Unlawful use of a weapon is a Class C misdemeanor, potentially punishable by up to one year in jail and fine of up to $1,000.

To bolster his contention that the dog was not dangerous, Walker is collecting signed statements from neighbors who knew the dog or whose children played with the dog. By early Thursday afternoon, he had collected 14 statements and said he planned to file them with the court.

Walker said Freckles was an "Australian cattle dog." A woman who knew Freckles described her as "cute" and "friendly" and "not a mean dog."

Walker said the species, used for herding, was originated by mating wild Australian dogs, called dingos with domesticated dogs.

Walker notified the Association for the Protection of Animals, Granite City, about the occurrence. But APA Superintendent Rose Atkins said the organization does not send an investigator once police are involved in an investigation.

'Con game' nets man $300

A man got away with $300 from a Walgreen's clerk May 27 by using sleight of hand.

The man entered the store at 330 Nameoki Road and handed the clerk a pile of small bills, saying he wanted big bills to give $300 to his daughter for her birthday.

The clerk counted the money, totaling $300, and gave him one $100 bill and 10 $20 bills. The man then bought some cigarettes, and the clerk told him he owed $20.

The man said he had some change in his car, took the pile of small bills and appeared to put the $300 in large bills in an envelope, which he sealed and handed to her, saying he would be back.

When the man didn't return, the clerk opened the envelope and found it was empty.

The man was described as about 6 feet tall, weighing 165 pounds, and 48 to 50 years old.

16-year-old needs foster home

GRANITE CITY — The Illinois Department of Children and Family Services is seeking help from area families willing to care for foster children of all ages.

Becky is one of the youngsters who needs a foster home. She is a friendly, outgoing 16-year-old with brown hair and hazel eyes. Although she enjoys babysitting, she does not like school.

Becky has been neglected by her family. Her mother kicked her out of the house, just as she locked out Becky's older sister when she reached 16. Six younger brothers and sisters still live at home.

A popular girl with lots of friends, Becky needs a foster family or a single foster mother who will be patient with her and understanding of the issues that can torment adolescents.

Those interested in giving a home advantage to Becky, or in foster care in general, may call Jeanette Rettle, resource development specialist, at 452-8420.

Stop raising mosquitoes in your yard

By Vince Scrum
Granite City Inspector

With the recent rains and wet weather, mosquitoes have become a major problem for the upcoming summer months.

The Granite City Sanitation

Department has placed its spraying and larvicide program in operation, but the department also asked for homeowner help to control the mosquito population.

Mosquitoes are an all too familiar summer nuisance. They are not only annoying, but they present potential health hazards to humans or such diseases as encephalitis, malaria and yellow fever to humans, and heartworm to pets.

But there are positive steps you can take to help to reduce this menace since many generations of mosquitoes may breed right in your own yard.

—Spray mosquito roosting areas. Follow a regular spraying program. Spraying is recommended insecticide, most commonly used by homeowners for long-term control of mosquitoes outside the home.

Spray where mosquitoes rest during the heat of the day, such as under sheds, shrubs, bushes, vines, flowers and in patches of tall grass, weeds. Also, spray sheltered surfaces outside the home such as roof eaves, breezeways, garages and the ceilings and screens of porches.

(DDVP, Vapona). Spray the mist lightly between tables and chairs.

All insecticides are approved by the Environmental Protection Agency and are available through most hardware, garden centers, and farm supply centers.

Follow all label instructions

Get rid of standing water!

—Empty, remove, cover or turn upside down any receptacle that would hold water — particularly old bottles and tin cans.

—Change water and scrub vases holding flowers or cuttings twice each week — or grow cuttings in sand. Clean bird baths twice weekly.

—Discard old tires or store them indoors.

—Screen rain barrels and openings to water tanks or cisterns.

—Repair leaky plumbing and outside faucets.

—Connect open waste-water drains to a sewage system, or construct separate sump or leach lines.

—Clean clogged roof gutters and drain flat roofs.

—Fill holes in trees with sand or mortar, or drain or spray them, as required.

—Stock ornamental ponds with mosquito fish.

Mosquitos develop only in water...and water standing just a few days can produce a crop of mosquitos!

carefully.

Eliminating potential breeding grounds and standing water spraying where the adult mosquitoes hide will certainly help reduce the mosquito menace around your property.

This will result in increasing your enjoyment of summer living outdoors.

YMCA Day Camp to start June 11

The Tri-City Area YMCA will offer nine weeks of Day Camp this summer, beginning the week of June 11.

"Day Camp is much more than 'day care' because we have so much to offer," according to Bob Slate, YMCA program director. "We go to a campsite everyday and swim, fish, canoe, play games, sing, hike in the woods... There are so many activities."

Each day, campers travel to the Belleville YMCA Family Recreation Center, a wooded area with a lake, playground, beach and camping facilities.

Twelve campers participate in a variety of activities with other campers in their own age group. There is an obstacle course to run, plus ball fields, swing sets and canoes.

"We never run out of things to do," said Slate.

The purpose of the camp is to provide "a place for children 6 to 14 years old to learn self-worth and confidence, Christian values, and to have fun while learning," he said.

Each week, the campers take a field trip to a location of interest in the area. Trips include: Busch Stadium, the Science Center, Grant's Farm, St. Louis Zoo, Six Flags and the Aquatics Center in Wood River.

Parents drop their children off at the YMCA at 8 a.m. and pick them up at 5 p.m.

"In the meantime, the children discover a whole world of fun, adventure and learning," said Slate.

More information on YMCA Day Camp can be obtained by visiting the YMCA at 2001 Edison Ave. or by calling 876-7200.

Project combines technology with environment

"It's not just concrete and steel," said Bob Wydra, general manager of the Tri-City Regional Port District, in discussing the Melvin Price Locks and Dam Project.

"It's also 12 miles of nature trails winding through 1,200 acres of marsh and prairie wildlife sanctuary."

According to Wydra, the massive locks and dam being constructed on the Mississippi River between Alton and Granite City will be more than just another step in the series of locks on the river.

"It will be a haven for wildlife and a showcase for natural habitats which have all but disappeared along the river."

the environment, a wedding made possible by the Corps of Engineers' initiative to promote environmental activities along the river."

"The Corps of Engineers has made a firm commitment to incorporate environmental work with engineering work," said James Hill, outdoor recreation planner for the Corps.

The result is a plan to make the land surrounding the Melvin Price Locks and Dam a prime area for visitors to learn about the natural and cultural heritage of the Middle Mississippi River Valley.

Seventeen barren acres directly adjacent to the Price Locks and Dam on the Illinois shore will be transformed into a public-use area featuring a visitor center, overviews, a picnic area, bicycle and pedestrian trails and living exhibits of natural habitats including prairie, marsh and bottomland forest, Hill said.

Plant species which used to thrive in the Mississippi Valley and yet are now scarce — due to logging, farming and industrial ization — will be highlighted. "We hope that exposure to these re-created habitats will enhance visitors' understanding and appreciation of our natural heritage," Hill said.

A key part of the park will be the visitor center and an enclosed overlook where individuals can watch a lock "in action."

Visitors will be able to walk across the dam and view the main lock located in the middle of the river.

Hill said the visitor center's theme will be "Mississippi River Environment: Products, Process and People."

The center will contain exhibits, artifacts and a theater providing information about the history of the river, the operation of the locks and dam, river recreation, historical views and environmental issues.

The plaza surrounding the center will be teeming with river artifacts.

"At the old Locks and Dam 26, we used to get out of their boats and watch boats 'locking through' and then be on their way," Hill said.

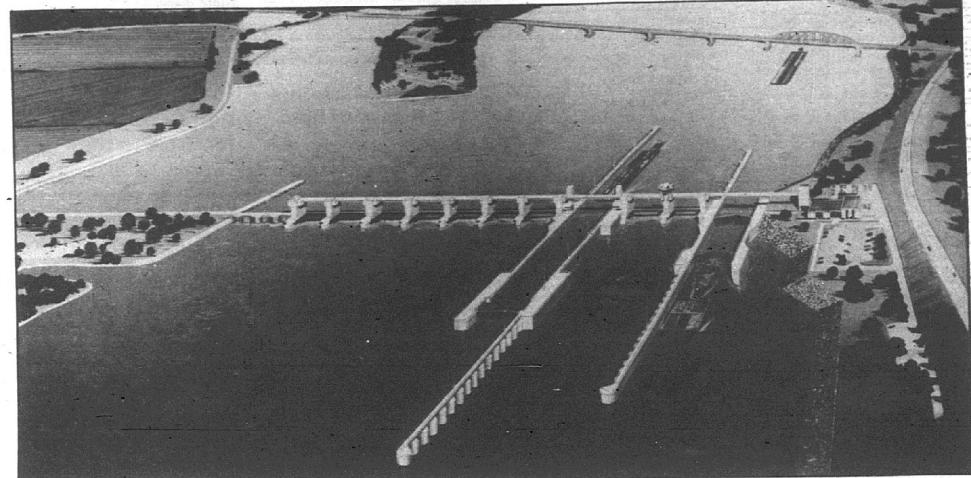

"Now, they'll want to spend even more time learning, not only about the process of keeping traffic flowing on the river, but also about the natural and cultural heritage of the river."

From the scenic overlook, visitors will see migrating eagles, osprey and other wildlife attracted to Maple Island, just down river.

They may also catch a glimpse of the rare Peregrine falcon which will have a nesting station on one tower of the lock and dam structure.

"We're working with the Raptor Rehabilitation Project from the Tyson Research Center in Missouri to re-introduce the endangered Peregrine falcon to the area," Hill said.

Plant species which used to

ARCHITECT'S RENDERING of the Melvin Price Locks and Dam located on the Mississippi River downstream from Alton. The project, scheduled for completion in 1993, will include not only the locks and dam, but also a riverside park the bluffs above the dam," Hill said.

On the Missouri side of the Price Locks and Dam, the Engineers Corps is restoring a 1,200-acre expanse of wet prairie and sub-tropical wet-weather conditions found along the river long before settlers arrived.

"Many species of diverse and colorful prairie grasses and wildflowers will be found in this restored area," Hill noted. "Visitors may hike trails and elevated walkways into the lands or get a panoramic view from observation platforms."

Hill said wintering bald eagles will thrive in these surroundings, along with resident and migratory populations of waterfowl, shorebirds, deer and other wildlife.

Two lakes next to the environmental area will be stocked for fishing. One of the lakes will have piers accessible to the handicapped.

Boaters may access all these wildlife areas via an improved with environmental exhibits, a visitors' center and scenic overlook on the Illinois side and 1200 acres of restored marsh and prairie land on the Missouri side.

West Alton Access, a new boat ramp, will be on the Missouri side of the river below the dam, as well as Alton's planned marina area. Ample parking for cars will also be available.

"We project a half-million visitors per year to the Locks and Dam Center alone," Hill said. "This will include tour groups and school children as well as the general public. The entire complex will be open all year long. Admittance will be free."

The project is scheduled for completion in 1993, which is also the scheduled completion date for the final phase of construction on the locks and dam, Hill said. The visitor center complex is expected to cost $8 million.

"This will be a premier area for visitors to catch a glimpse of some rare plants and animals, as well as to view the workings of the locks," Hill said.

Another area to be changed is Whitaker's plan would be changing trash pickup in the special improvement area of East Granite from alleys to curbside.

This area of East Granite, along with most of the city, will be the first to pilot a curbside recycling program to begin in January.

The pilot program, also run by a private contractor, also could be utilized by residents of other parts of the city; they would drop off recyclable trash at specific locations.

Under the proposed plan, small businesses and all apartments except duplexes would have to individually contract for trash hauling. Currently, the city requires individual contracting for large businesses and apartment buildings with four or more residences.

Whitaker and Public Works Director Brett Hanke are continuing to work on a long-range plan to keep the city on top of changing laws requiring more and more items to be recycled.

"We realize nobody wants to change, but we have to do things," Whitaker said. "So, instead of rushing into something, we want to go gradually and have time to work things out as we go along."

Aggravated criminal sexual abuse, Class II felony punishable by three to seven years in prison upon conviction.

When arrested at his residence Friday afternoon, the man was Later on Friday afternoon, the girl identified a T-shirt and blue jeans taken from the man's residence as the clothes he had been wearing during the alleged attack.

Vacation days spent on beach

Melvin and Joann Cotter of English Place have returned home following a month's vacation to Florida. They recently enjoyed a camping vacation and spent most days on the beach.

The Cotters visited Venice, Fla., where they witnessed the Blessing of the Fleet. They also saw a manatee (sea cow) swim through a public swimming area, causing quite a commotion among swimmers.

The Cotters also took a one-day "Sea Escape" cruise aboard the M.V. Tropicana, cruise boat out of St. Petersburg. They visited the point of interest in Osprey, Seminole, Dunedin and Panama in Florida, before returning home in time to celebrate their 40th wedding anniversary with family and friends at a party hosted by their children May 12. ***

Sgt. Gary Jones, a former area resident, now with the United States Army, stationed at Fort Hamilton, N.Y., was a guest in the home of Clifford and Maxine Duniphian of Chouteau Avenue, last week. Duniphian and Jones had formerly worked together for 20 years at American Steel Foundries.

Jones was on leave from his base due to the illness of his mother, Hazel Jones of Granite City, who is a patient at St. Anthony's Hospital in Alton.

Sgt. Scott Wiesehan, his wife, Carrie, and son, Andrew, have returned to their home in Wichita.

Women's Division offers rose bushes

The Women's Division of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a sale of Jackson and Perkins No. 1 grade rose bushes.

Proceeds will be used for civic beautification projects, along with the sponsorship of various children/youth activities, said Nancy Sanders-Miles, Women's Division president.

The rose bushes can be purchased at the chamber, 1831 Delmar Ave., or by calling 452-5055.

Five varieties are featured: Tropicana (orange); Snowflake (green and white); Ole (red); Sweet Briar (pink); and Zephir (red climbing). The cost per bush is $6. The roses are from the Heritage assortment.

Ms. Kan, after visiting her parents, Melvin and Joann Cotter, and other relatives and friends in the area.

Prior to leaving, the Wiesehans shared in the 40th wedding anniversary celebration for the mother of a Mother's Day celebration for Mrs. Cotter. There were the guests of honor at a dinner party hosted by her sister and brother-in-law, Christine and Brian Gains, and son, Nicholas. Also present for the party were Owen and Margaret Rollberg.

Jessie Sayers and her daughter, Dorothy Ashford of Dale Avenue, enjoyed the Memorial Day visit of Mrs. Cotter's granddaughters, Pinky, Linda, Debbie, Clara Cole, and their friends, Rose Carrier and Nade Thompson of Grand Rapids, Mich.

The visitors traveled here by motor home. They checked up on Mrs. Cotter, who is in good health, and took them out shopping and to Pere Marquette State Park, where they prepared dinner in the motor home.

Gene and Betty Futch and son, David, of Moorland Drive, have returned from a weekend trip to southeast Missouri, where Mr. and Mrs. Futch visited their mothers, Pauline Futch and Lucille Glass at East Prairie.

Any one wishing to display a quilt may make arrangements by calling the church office at 877-1936 or Dorothy Ashford at 876-9035.

The fair will be in progress from 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. Lunch will be served at noon. Admission to the show is $1. The cost for admission and lunch will be $2.75.

Maxine Duniphian covers the Mitchell area for the Press-Record/Journal. She can be contacted at 931-2714.

They also attended the Bone-Glass reunion in Charleston and visited another of their sons, Sgt. Kenneth Futch and family in Sikeston.

Sgt. Futch is a Marine recruit in the Sikeston area.

Bob Morris, Chouteau Township road commissioner, has established a road pickup service which is available to the Chouteau Township residents during the less busy season.

The pickup service will resume in late fall when necessary road improvements have been completed. ***

Mitchell School awards were presented May 25 by Joan Harris, school principal, at the morning assembly in the school gym.

Awards were presented for various accomplishments at 172 of the 566 students enrolled. ***

The United Methodist Women of Nameoki United Methodist Church, Pontoon Road and Primrose Avenue, will sponsor a "Quilt Fair" on June 16 at the church.

Any one wishing to display a quilt may make arrangements by calling the church office at 877-1936 or Dorothy Ashford at 876-9035.

The fair will be in progress from 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. Lunch will be served at noon. Admission to the show is $1. The cost for admission and lunch will be $2.75.

LUSCIOUS AND CREAMY, Smoked Turkey Salad is a main dish that will keep everyone happy.

Turkey salad lightens supper after busy day

Summer-active days leave no time to spend in a kitchen cooking. There are too many wonderful places waiting to be visited, too many delightful events to happen.

When the cook collides with a time crunch, it is time to minimize cooking time and maximize enjoyment time. Smoked Turkey Salad is the right answer.

This nourishing main dish salad takes advantage of the flavor that smoking imparts to turkey and other meats. It can be found in the deli case.

Cubed red apple, crisp celery and pecans add color and crunch to the salad, while navy or pinto beans, found most often in single-dish entrees, provide an extra dose of protein and appetite satisfaction.

The smooth and creamy dressing uses sour half-and-half to reduce the calorie count while lemon juice and Dijon mustard lend its flavor.

Smoked Turkey Salad is at its best if refrigerated 2 to 3 hours before serving. Accompany it with crusty bread or favorite crackers.

Smoked turkey salad

1 cup dairy sour half-and-half
1 tbsp. fresh lemon juice
1 tsp. Dijon mustard
1/2 tsp. seasoned salt
1/2 tsp. pepper
2 cups cubed smoked cooked turkey
1 cup chopped red apple, unpeeled
1/2 cup cooked navy or pinto beans
1/2 cup chopped celery
1/2 cup chopped pecans

Combine sour half-and-half, lemon juice, mustard, seasoned salt and pepper.

Combine turkey, apple, beans, celery and pecans, mixing well. Gently toss with dressing.

Refrigerate, covered, 2 to 3 hours to allow flavors to blend.

Serve on chilled plates with watercress.

Makes 4 servings; 360 calories, 22 gm. protein, 24 gm. fat, 18 gm. carbohydrate each.

Add a little fiber to desserts

There are many ways to add fiber to sweet desserts. One is with wheat germ.

Add 1/4 cup wheat germ and 1/4 cup additional water with usual ingredients to a standard size (about 19-ounce) package cake mix. When making cookies, substitute 1/2 cup wheat germ for same amount of flour.

Up to 1/2 cup wheat germ can be added to one 21- to 25-ounce package fudge brownie mix.

Sprinkle 1 or 2 tablespoons wheat germ on fresh fruit or ice cream.

Wheat germ, which usually can be found in the cereal section of grocery stores, should be refrigerated after it is opened.

Mothers also might consult with their pediatricians about sprinkling wheat germ on baby's food after baby reaches about 9 months of age.
